General Information

Info Source: Sources of Federal Government and Employee Information provides information about the functions, programs, activities and related information holdings of government institutions subject to the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. It provides individuals and employees of the government (current and former) with relevant information to access personal information about themselves held by government institutions subject to the Privacy Act and to exercise their rights under the Privacy Act.

The Introduction and an index of institutions subject to the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act are available centrally.

The Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act assign overall responsibility to the President of the Treasury Board (as the designated Minister) for the government-wide administration of the legislation.

Background

The Canadian Human Rights Commission (Commission) was established in 1977 under Schedule 1.1 of the Financial Administration Act in accordance with the Canadian Human Rights Act (CHRA). The Act became operative on March 1, 1978. The Commission's founding legislation inspires a vision for Canada in which "all individuals should have an opportunity equal with other individuals to make for themselves the lives that they are able and wish to have" free from discrimination. The Commission reports to Parliament through the Minister of Justice.

Responsibilities

The Commission leads the administration of the Canadian Human Rights Act (CHRA) and ensures compliance with the Employment Equity Act (EEA). The CHRA prohibits discrimination and the EEA promotes equality in the workplace. Both laws apply the principles of equal opportunity and non-discrimination to federal government departments and agencies, Crown corporations, and federally regulated private sector organizations.

- Vision
- About the Commission
- Our Mandate

Please refer to the Commission's Departmental Plan and its Departmental Results Report for more information on specific plans and priorities.

Classes of Personal Information

Classes of personal Information describe personal information that is not used for administrative purposes or is not intended to be retrievable by personal identifiers, for example, unsolicited opinions, correspondence, etc. This category is included to ensure that institutions account for all personal information they hold.

Complaints Dispute Resolution

Personal Information may be accumulated in the course of dealing with dispute resolution matters not related to specific cases of allegations of discrimination in employment. Such personal information may include an individual's name, location, employment data, views or opinions of the individual or about the individual, etc. This personal information is not kept using the name of individuals or other personal identifiers. It is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning research related to the duties and responsibilities of the Commission. The retention periods for this class of personal information are controlled by the retention schedules of the files in which they are stored.

Employment Equity Audits

Personal Information may be accumulated in the course of conducting audit activities. Such personal information may include an individual's race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, age, sexual orientation or marital status, views or opinions of another individual about the individual, etc. This personal information is not kept using the name of individuals or other personal identifiers. It is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning research related to the duties and responsibilities of the Commission. The retention periods for this class of personal information are controlled by the retention schedules of the files in which they are stored.

Human Rights Awareness

Personal Information may be accumulated in the course of conducting prevention and research activities in matters dealing with human rights. Such personal information may include an individual's race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation gender identity or expression, marital status, family status, genetic discrimination, disability, and conviction for an offence for which a pardon has been granted or in respect of which a record suspension has been ordered, views or opinions of another individual about the individual, etc. This personal information is not kept using the name of individuals or other personal identifiers. It is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning research related to the duties and responsibilities of the Commission. The retention periods for this class of personal information are controlled by the retention schedules of the files in which they are stored.
